study, the prices of textbooks have increased by more than 1,041 percent since 1977. Why? Because capitalism. About 80 percent of all books printed in college are published by an oligopoly of five major companies — an editorial cartel that can increase the prices of textbooks without any pushback of buyers. They know that students are a "captive market" that has to buy any teaching books teachers assign to their classes, so they can (and do) raise prices without much — if there is — loss in revenue. It is quite confusing — but you do not have to play your game. With a little extra effort and careful shopping, you can save a package in text books this semester, and to help you do this, we have gathered this quick reference guide on how and where to get cheap text books online. Below, you will find not only the best websites to steal your books in cheap, but also some tips, tricks and tools that will save time and money. If you will use a book for more than a semester, it is probably a good idea to buy the book and keep it for as long as you need it. This is better for books that you will keep for a while — that is, enough time for renting for that amount of time would end up being more expensive. You can buy books practically anywhere, and you will probably want to shop around, but usually speaking, the best places to buy new and used text books are: Amazon usually has a great choice becausePure volume. You will find tons of dealers. Half purchased by ebay by 2000, Half.com has sold online used books for a lot more than one Is a huge selection and great prices. the slugbooks slugâ compares prices of dozens of online bookstores major and allows you to know which ones have the best prices. bigwords this is very similar to slugbooks and compares several different websites to help you find the cheapest books. student2student s2s facilitates the location of students in your field who are selling the books whenever you can. electronic versions not only cost less than the printed variety, but also are more convenient. depending on the reader you pray, you can highlight certain passages of the book, search the text by keywords and easily capture screenshots of graphics and visuals. to be clear, you do not need a book for a semester (or less), renting your books instead of buying them can save a lot of money. dozens of book rental services have emerged in recent years in response to the increased prices of textbooks, and now students have tons of options to choose from. here are some of the best: chegg, the indisputable king of textbook rental. they have a huge selection and quite decent rates, so it is a good place to start looking. amazon textbook rental this is the response of the amazon to the success of chegg and, as is the amazon, offers some seriously competitive rates. a rentals of barnes & noble, without surprise, B&N also performs a didactic book rental service. good selection, prices ok. a pack booksback rents e-books instead of physical variety and also offers one day rentals for books that you need only for short periods of time. *Professional tip: check your study plan and find out exactly how long you will need each kcotsrettuhS/aveyrogirG ailuy .zev adac ed saud uo anames amu sanepa rop orvil o ragula ed o£ÃŞÃpo a ecerefo setis sod airoiam a ,ertsemes od etrap arap sanepa rasicerp aAcov eS This app (available for iOS) lets you borrow or rent textbooks from your friends and classmates, instead of giving your money to a big company like Chegg or Amazon. Your city/university library This one should go without saying, but if you only need a textbook for a couple weeks, just reserve it and check it out from your university¢ÃÂÂs collection. Even if your school or city doesn¢ÃÂÂt have the particular book you need, many universities have inter-library loan agreements with other organizations, allowing you to borrow books from other libraries nearby. Ask your librarian about it! If you live in the U.S., the government offers this awesome program called the Lifetime Learning Tax Credit, which allows students to get up to $2,000 in tax rebates for the textbooks they buy. There are certain requirements you AAAll need to satisfy (basically, your gross income needs to be below $64K)A ain order to quality for the credit, but it AAAs definitely worth looking in to. Here AAAs the form you need. Editors' Recommendations Want more? Advanced embedding details, examples, and help! Download free Physics Textbook pdf from Stoplearn.com at absolutely no cost.
